Three Die In Mine Crash At Britannia In Howe Sound Area

Locomotive in Workings Runs Away When Driver Collapses; Falls Down Shaft and Wrecks the Ascending Cage

Driver Is Victim Of Heart Attack

Canadian Press
Britannia Beach, B.C., March 2.—Three employees of the Britannia Mining and Smelting Company Limited, lost their lives in an accident in which the driver of a mine locomotive collapsed and the driverless engine plunged down a shaft, crushing the elevator on which two other men were ascending to the surface.

Those who lost their lives were: J. J. Coyle, shift boss; Robert J. White, chute driver; Samuel J. Perkins, locomotive driver.

Perkins was believed to have suffered a heart attack while operating the locomotive on the 100-foot level at the mine yesterday evening. He fell from the locomotive, which ran uncontrolled, broke through the protection block and the iron shaft gate and plunged approximately 600 feet down the shaft.

JAMMED AGAINST TIMBERS
The ascending cage containing Coyle and White was telescoped and jammed against the timbers of the shaft. Both cage and locomotive were thus prevented from falling further.

The bodies of the men pinned in the demolished cage had not been removed at noon today. It was expected some time would elapse before the wreckage could be cleared from the shaft.

An inquest will be held after the bodies are brought to the surface. Mine officials to-day said the protection block had proved sufficient on other occasions to stop cars that were in motion.

FOUR-TON LOCOMOTIVE

The locomotive weighed approximately four tons and was operated by storage batteries.

Bridge Is Started In Constantinople

Graduate of Cambridge University Recalls Playing Game in 1898 in London and Holding "Cast Iron" Hand; Tells of Its Origin.

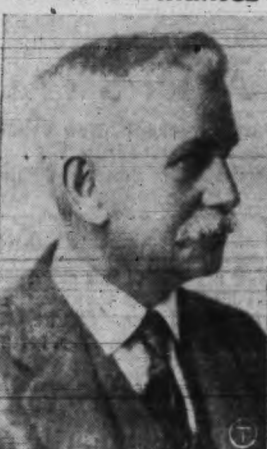

Bridge originated in Constantinople in the eighties, according to a letter received by the Bridge Editor of The Times to-day from a graduate of Cambridge University who now resides in this city and who wishes to conceal his identity under the favorite non de plume of "Old Cantab."

He has joined in the discussion which started several days ago in The Times over the origin of the game. The claim was made that it was a fairly modern game.

The letter of "Old Cantab" is as follows:
"With reference to an article on 'Bridge' in Wednesday's Times, I have always understood that it was played in the Constantinople Clubs for some ten years or more before it took the fancy of the London clubmen. It originated among army and diplomatic circles in the '80s in Constantinople, and was first noticeably played in England in 1896."

GOLD MINING BRIGHT SPOT

New Valuation in U.S. Gives Incentive to Production in Canada, Says Director

Gold mining is the one industry in Canada which has a bright future, D. H. Angus, Hallybury, Ont., director of Beattie Gold Mines, operators of the famous Noranda and other properties in Quebec and Ontario, said in the course of an interview at the Empress Hotel to-day.

"There is plenty of evidence everywhere, not only in Eastern Canada, but also in British Columbia, that mining is coming back strongly," he said. "Gold production on our properties last year amounted to some 2,000 ounces, which at the present price of gold, is indicative of the development that is taking place."

When President Roosevelt fixed the price of gold in the United States at $35 an ounce, he did Canada a good turn. He is one of the best friends Canada ever had, commented Mr. Angus. It is quite within the bounds of possibility that Mr. Roosevelt, who has the power, may yet fix the price of gold at a higher value, possibly at around $40 an ounce, the mining director believes.

TEACHERS HAVE PAY RESTORED

Winnipeg, March 2.—Broad smiles creased the faces of Winnipeg school teachers to-day and tardy juniors with visions of a stern reprimand were frankly puzzled. Relief Allowance Raised To Meet Increased Prices

Provincial Government fixes Flat 10 Per Cent Advance on Old Scale as Survey Shows Cost of Living Rising; Municipalities Have Discretion; Increased Relief Bill $40,000 a Month

To meet increased cost of living, relief allowances for food will be increased on a flat rate of 10 per cent, effective March 1. It was announced this morning by Hon. G. S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, under whose department relief administration comes.

This action was based upon the quarterly survey of living costs just completed by the department and will be province-wide in its application.

Allowances for shelter and fuel are not affected by the order and will remain on the same scale as that laid down in the old system.

As far as municipalities are concerned, the increase will be left to the discretion of municipal councils, but the basic rate on which the government agrees to pay a share is changed by the increase. Following is a comparison of the old and new scales on a monthly calculation:

| | Old | New |
|-----------------------|---------|---------|
| Man | $9.00 | $9.90 |
| Child | 3.50 | 3.85 |
| Wife | 2.50 | 2.75 |
| Shelter (40 per cent) | 6.00 | 6.60 |
| Total | $21.00 | $22.50 |

The survey of food costs has shown a distinct rise in commodity prices, it was stated, and this has been recognized by increasing the allowances. At the same time a new system on which to base the inquiry into costs is being studied by the department.

The total cost of the increase is estimated roughly at $40,000 monthly.

MUST DEVELOP BUYING POWER

Higher Wages Necessary for Country's Reconstruction, Says Minister

"We must, to the greatest degree possible, without undermining the industries upon which the wages are dependent, develop buying power through increasing the wage power, for there is no doubt that through this channel the reconstruction of the country has got to come," stated Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Mines and Labor, in outlining to members of the Credit Grantees' Association at their luncheon to-day at Spencer's, the principles which industrial leaders should recognize to bring the return of prosperity.

The minister stressed the fact that there was a weakness in the general conception of the part business and industry played in the lives of the people. If the reconstruction did not succeed in elevating the morale of the people and increase happiness generally then could not be termed successful, he stated. Since becoming a minister of the government he had been more and more impressed with this elevation, and it was to this end he was working in the amendments which he has suggested for the Minimum Wage Act.

"There has long passed when successful industry is measured by the capital it has piled up," he said. "To-day it is measured by the happiness which it brings to the people dependent upon it."

It should not be a case of "work for work's sake," but work to lift the human happiness and human contentment, he contended. "We can only develop the prosperity of the people and their material comfort as we can develop the natural resources which God has given us," he said.

CHIEF OBJECTIVE

The chief objective, the minister maintained, was to develop the industries to the greatest extent to which they may be used and at the same time develop them sufficiently for distribution in other countries at fair exchange values. It was generally agreed he said, that a more equitable way for the distribution of products was necessary.

In dealing with the manner in which this might be brought about, Mr. Pearson pointed out that for the time being British Columbia was committed to capitalism and it had not been shown that the reconstruction could not be brought about under this system.

Hens Fight Hawk Raiding Chickens

Two Combine to Get Best of Marauder When It Swoops Down on Young Ones

P. Prefontaine of West Road, Saanich, has two brooding hens, which, he has discovered, are true mothers when it comes to protecting their young even against hawks. The pair are unusual inasmuch as they both keep their broods of ten-day-old baby chicks in the same pen, but recently they united their efforts when it appeared a chicken hawk might break up their happy home.

In relating the incident Mr. Prefontaine stated that about 4 o'clock last Saturday, while heeding the chickens, he noticed a hawk flying overhead apparently swooping down on a chicken. It made an attempt to seize one of the chicks but struck a wire netting which enclosed the pen.

Nearly two hours later, while he was inside the chicken yard and thought it was a fight between the two mother hens although they had never disturbed each other before. He ran out and to his surprise discovered that the chicken hawk had made another attempt to carry off a dinner, this time being successful in getting inside the pen.

The two hens perched on it. Mr. Prefontaine found them holding the hawk "across for the count" when he arrived. It was necessary for him to hold both hens off to get possession of the marauder.

Calgary, March 2.—Farmers of the Myrnam district, who have carried on a "selliers' strike" for some weeks, have won. Demands for a change of grain buyers in the Myrnam area have been granted, on recommendation of the Board of Grain Commissioners, it was announced to-day.

Operators of the five elevators at Myrnam have agreed to change buyers in the district, following a recommendation from the board made through E. B. Ramsay, chief commissioner. The elevators are operated by the Alberta Pacific Grain Company, the Northern Grain Company, the Province Elevator Company, the Beattie Grain Company Limited and the United Grain Growers Limited.

Widow of Pawnshop Promoter Arrested After Many Cheque Stubs Found

Canadian Press and Associated Press
Paris, March 2.—Mme. Arlette Stavisky, beautiful widow of the man who caused the notorious "Stavisky scandal" which brought in its wake the overthrow of two governments, was arrested to-day by the secret service.

The arrest followed the recovery from an undisclosed source by the secret service of cheque stubs giving the names of many recipients of "bearer" cheques from the master swindler.

The police long had sought these stubs in their efforts to identify those who had received millions of dollars from Stavisky and who, likewise, had cashed millions of dollars' worth of cheques which he made out to himself.

They revealed for the first time Mme. Stavisky, on the day after her husband either committed suicide or was killed in a lonely villa at Chamoni, gave the stubs to a friend.

The stubs were delivered to former Premier Albert Sarraut shortly after midnight by M. Bony, one of the chief inspectors of the secret service, suspended recently for alleged laxity in the Stavisky case.

READY TO TELL NAMES
When Mme. Stavisky was told January 5 her husband, surrounded by secret police, had killed himself at Chamoni, she said she knew the names of men in high places who were friendly to her husband. She promised at that time she would tell who "even cabinet ministers," had visited their home.

Canadian Press
Ottawa, March 2.—Official announcement will be made to-morrow, it is understood, that the Finance Department will receive tenders for treasury bills to the amount of $15,000,000, to be issued in two maturities of three months and eight months, dating from March 1, 1934.

Each tender must be for a minimum of $100,000, which will restrict the bidding to banks, insurance companies or financial houses with large sums of cash available for short term investment.

OPERATIONS OF BOARD OF PUBLIC UTILITY COMMISSIONERS DESCRIBED AT FEDERAL INVESTIGATION SESSION BY OFFICIAL OF THE PRAIRIE ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT

A brief picture of conditions before the price fixing system was given by the Alberta official. Some stores sold milk 2 cents a quart under delivery prices, and sometimes gave it away with purchases of breakfast food, he said. Small producers endeavored to match prices, with the result the farmers were receiving next to nothing.

Under the board of public utility commissioners, right prices were fixed. In Calgary, for instance, the price to the farmers was set at $1.95 hundredweight, or approximately 5 cents a quart. The wagon price to consumers was fixed at 10 cents a quart. Retail stores were charged from 8 to 10 cents a quart, depending on daily average sales, and must charge at least 9 cents.

TEST IN COURTS
Alberta has no doubt of its power to set prices for milk or any other product within its own boundaries, said Mr. Frawley, although the validity of the Milk Act had been challenged before the courts.

The province now was considering setting uniform prices for canned milk.

BANK ACT GIVEN TO COMMONS COMMITTEE

Ottawa, March 2.—Although assailed by Labor and Farmer members of the House of Commons as the perpetuation of an obnoxious financial system which gave to a few men the control of the bulk of the wealth of the country, the new Bank Act was formally before the House committee on banking and commerce to-day.

The Bank of Canada Act, the measure to establish a central bank, has not yet been sent to the committee. The House gave second reading yesterday evening to the Bank Act, which extends the charter of Canadian banks for another ten years and makes certain changes in the banking system.

The Liberal opposition offered no objection to the bill being sent to the committee. Hon. J. L. Malton, Shelburne-Yarmouth, N.S. Liberal financial critic, expressed the view the bill could be examined to better advantage in committee.

Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, moved second reading.

SPEEDS UP MANY CHANNELS

There is a much more significant angle to the mining industry, states Mr. Angus, than dividends. "Mining development means that the wheels of progress are speeded up in many lines of business," he said in explaining that seventy cents out of every dollar going into mining development finds its way back into various channels for the betterment of conditions generally.

Mr. Angus observed that it would be a good thing for British Columbia if the province could develop a few more Pioneers and Bralornes. He has a particular interest in the province, for after leaving school he next Wednesday, when representatives of retail merchant associations will be heard. It has been proposed to bring retail men here from every province in the country.

The committee was told to-day Manitoba has a milk system similar to Alberta's. It was set up after a "milk war" in Winnipeg.

COMMISSION INVESTIGATED
Mr. Frawley told the committee that since July 1, 1933, price fixing of fluid milk under the Alberta Public Utility Commission had been in effect. This step had followed the findings of a fact-finding commission which had gone all over the province inquiring into conditions relative to the production and distribution of milk.

Mr. Frawley, who was commission chairman, outlined conditions which had prevailed. The fall of prices in farm products in 1931 and 1932 had caused farmers who had been butter fat producers to go into the production of fluid milk came on the market, particularly Calgary and Edmonton.

ONTARIO FURNITURE FIGURES
At yesterday's sitting of the Commons committee Mayor O. J. Kerr of Stratford, Ontario, told of furniture manufacturing conditions and wages.

Mayor Kerr, himself a furniture worker, said it had taken a four-week strike in the Stratford furniture shops last September to raise wages, and even to-day the levels were extremely low, due to piecework standards. Before the walkout, a man with twenty-one years' experience worked for eight and ten cents an hour. Another man received $3 for a full week's work. Another grossed $408 for twelve months.

Flourishing pay envelopes, the Stratford mayor told of a furniture worker with thirty years' experience, supporting a family of six children, drawing from 76c to $2.96 for a ten-hour day over a period of nineteen days.

NAMES NOT GIVEN
All through Mayor Kerr's evidence, names were not used, but Hon. H. H. Stevens, chairman of the committee, intimated names and figures would be presented later. Special investigators would inquire into the Ontario furniture trade, the clothing industry and others, scanning books and documents for official facts. Retailers, employees and manufacturers would be brought before the committee to trace the effect of low wages and mass buying from worker to consumer.

NEW REGULATIONS
Girls in Stratford furniture plants received as low as $2 a week before the September strike, Mayor Kerr said, but now the manufacturers were committed to the regulations. Four years ago the Furniture Guild, which antedated the union and the strike, laid facts and figures before the Ontario minimum wage board of a girl receiving $3 for seventy hours' work. The board, he said, took no action.

There was no doubt that mass buying forced down wages, said the Stratford mayor. He told of some buyers approaching manufacturers with blue prints and stating prices on a "take-it-or-leave-it" basis. When the order was accepted, wages were cut, the general scale of furniture prices came down and a vicious circle started, he said.

Through mass buying, the piecework for assembling chairs in one Stratford plant dropped from $2.05 to ninety cents and from forty-five cents to seven cents, Mayor Kerr said. The pay for darning 1,000 pieces dropped from sixty cents to twenty-five. After a 33-1-3 per cent increase, the best cabinetmakers in a Stratford plant were able to make only twelve cents an hour.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head ear noises or are growing hard of hearing, get to your druggist and get a box of Catarrhal Deafness Tablets (double strength), and take 10 pills 3 times a day after meals. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

than if his injuries resulted fatally at a future date after he was sued. The new principle cited in the act continues the right of action after a person is dead.

Sections covering this are as follows: "The executor or administrator of any deceased person may bring and maintain an action for all torts or injuries to the person or property of the deceased in the same manner and with the same rights and remedies as the deceased would, if living, be entitled to, except that recovery in the action shall not extend to damages in respect of physical disfigurement or pain or suffering caused to the deceased or to damages in respect of expectancy of earnings subsequent to the death of the deceased, which might have been sustained if the deceased had not died; and the damages recovered in the action shall form part of the personal estate of the deceased."

"In the case of any tort or injury to person or property of the son who committed the wrong dies, the person wronged, or, in case of his death, his executor or administrator, may bring and maintain an action against the executor or administrator of the deceased person who committed the wrong, and the damages and costs recovered in the action shall be payable out of the estate of the deceased in like order of administration as the simple contract debts of the deceased."

BRITISH M.P. Testifies
in Rasputin Suit

The most sensational of these statements was that he had been asked by Valdimir M. Purishkevitch—one of those who helped kill the monk—to join in the slaying.

GREAT INTEREST
The courtroom crowd leaned forward in breathless silence. At least half of those who jammed their way in and overflowed into the corridors were women.

They were attracted by the story of the slaying of the mysterious monk as told yesterday by Prince Felix Yusupov, husband of the princess. Commander Lube Lampert, who made his sensational statement quietly at the end of the cross-examination.

SEES MOVIE
Previously, he had testified he was "puzzled by the conditions of the case," and went to see the film yesterday evening with an absolutely open mind.

He said he knew both the prince and princess by sight, and did not

OFFICIALS FOIL PLOT IN BRAZIL

Associated Press
Sao Paulo, Brazil, March 2.—Plans to assassinate high civil and military officials were thwarted by the discovery of a plot of army sergeants, the government disclosed yesterday evening.

Officials pushed their investigation into the activities of some 200 sergeants and other non-commissioned officers arrested Wednesday.

The plans uncovered by the government called for the assassinations to take place March 3, starting a revolutionary movement. The plotters then expected to occupy the air field and the public utilities.

Canada's Exports To Britain Reported

Canadian Press
Ottawa, March 2.—Canada in two years has risen from twelfth to third place as a supplier of commodities to the United Kingdom, according to the official figures of the British government, states Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

"The proportion of British imports which came from Canada in 1933," said the Minister, "was 6.94 per cent, as compared with 6.13 per cent in 1932 and 3.81 per cent in 1931."

"Imports from Canada in 1933 were exceeded only by those from the United States and Australia."

BUTTER IMPORTS

Ottawa, March 2 (Canadian Press).—Imports of New Zealand butter into Canada during the calendar year, 1933, totaled 1,921,208 pounds, according to information given in the House of Commons yesterday. New Zealand butter in customs custody on February 28 last totaled 320,146 pounds.

U.S. ARMY FLIER AT MAIL TASK

The above picture was taken just after a pilot had arrived in Cleveland, Ohio, from Chicago with 300 pounds of mail.

Big Savings Are Made by Senate

Senator C. Murphy Says Body Proves Worth by Amending Bills

Canadian Press
Ottawa, March 2.—Evidence that the Senate, in amending the rejection bills, had saved Canada at least $100,000,000, was offered to the upper chamber yesterday by Senator Charles Murphy, Liberal, Ontario. He quoted the late Sir Richard Cartwright as saying that "the value of the Senate is not only in what the Senate does, but in what the Senate prevents other people from doing."

The long record of beneficial service of the Senate in safeguarding and improving Canadian legislation was narrated by Senator Murphy.

Recently Senator A. D. McRae, Conservative, Vancouver, had drawn the Senate's attention to the fact that "the people of Canada have but a very vague and quite erroneous impression as to the responsibility of this honorable house with respect to government."

SENATORS IN CABINET
Senator Murphy gave it as his opinion, a number of senators should be in the cabinet, if not in charge of departments, then as ministers without portfolio. There should be several men in the senate who had the full confidence of the government and were able to speak for the government.

CUMBERLAND IS FACING DEFICIT

Cumberland, March 2.—Cumberland faces a grave financial situation in the coming year, unless aid is forthcoming, both in civic and school departments.

Estimated expenditures and revenue for the year, city expenses, were put before the council, estimated expenditures totaling $9,832 and revenue $7,570, a deficit of $2,262. In the estimated receipts, government grants were not taken into consideration. Excess of expenditure over receipts amounting to $2,262 will take ten years to raise.

Mayor Maxwell expressed the opinion that a "show down" was only a matter of time.

WAY TO MONEY CLAIMS BARRED

Canadian Press
Edmonton, March 2.—Legislation designed to protect the province of Alberta from claims for millions of dollars in the form of repayment of succession duties has been introduced in the Legislature and will come up for second reading shortly.

The legislation will put Alberta on a uniform basis with other provinces, where steps are also being taken to make necessary statute changes.

The legislation will protect the province against having to make repayments to beneficiaries retroactive to 1905, when the province was formed.

Recently a decision of the Privy Council in London in the I. K. Kerr case found the Alberta Succession Duties Act as ultra vires.

GREAT BLAST AT BRIDGE SITE

Vancouver, March 2.—A deluge of telephone calls to fire halls, police stations and newspaper offices by residents of Vancouver and surrounding districts was the result of the explosion of 5,000 pounds of dynamite here yesterday evening. The blast, which rattled windows and shook dishes from shelves, and was plainly heard in New Westminster, twelve miles distant, was set off by a crew working on the Second Narrows bridge and blew out the piers of the old bridge.

Plan for Unclaimed Balances in Banks

Canadian Press
Ottawa, March 2.—A means by which the government could secure about $3,000,000 new money was suggested in the House of Commons yesterday evening by E. J. Garland, U.P.A., Bow River.

Mr. Garland would have the government force the chartered banks to pay into the Dominion treasury all balances unclaimed over a period of five years or longer, together with accrued interest. He would set aside 20 per cent to meet possible claims on the fund. The suggestion was made during debate on second reading of the act respecting banks and banking.

SOCIAL ORDER ON CHRISTIAN BASIS

That Is Only Proper Foundation for Changes, Say Prairie Bishops

Saskatoon, March 2.—A warning against "all prophets of a new social order" which differ in any essential point from those on which alone the Christian world order can securely rest" is contained in a pastoral letter which is to be read in all Roman Catholic churches of this province Sunday.

The letter comes from the Catholic hierarchy of Saskatchewan, including the Archbishop of Regina.

Materialistic capitalism on the one extreme, reactionary communism on the other, and those systems which deny the Christian faith are condemned by the clergy.

After pointing to wrong principles on which modern society is based, the letter says:

"Suffice it to say materialistic capitalism is so unchristian in its philosophy and evil consequences that it must give way to a reconstructed social order, based on Christian principles."

YOUTH SAYS MAN SLAIN IN WOODS

Canadian Press
Dauphin, Man., March 2.—A graphic description of the killing of Albert "Shorty" McQuade was written into court records here to-day at the trial of Jiles Komarnicki, Barrows River timber cutter, charged with murder.

Through the testimony of Carl Manistyrsky, seventeen, the prosecution sought to strengthen its theory that failure to borrow money was the motive for the axe murder in the timber country north of here last January.

From exhibits in court Manistyrsky selected a double-bladed axe which, he said, belonged to Komarnicki, and illustrated with swings at an interpreter how McQuade was beaten after refusing Komarnicki money.

The two had been hired, he testified, to cut wood in McQuade's timber berth, north of Barrows River. They had been instructed about the wood to be cut and as McQuade was leaving Komarnicki approached him for money. McQuade refused, the boy testified, and then his partner picked up the axe and beat him over the head.

The hearing is continuing.

SCHOOL COURSE PROPOSAL

Edmonton, March 2 (Canadian Press).—Uniform curricula standards for schools in the western provinces were advocated by Hector Lang, Liberal, Medicine Hat, when proposing a resolution to that effect in the Alberta Legislature yesterday. A similar resolution was rejected by the House last year.

TRADE TREATY IS DEFENDED

At Birmingham, Hon. G. H. Ferguson Speaks for Canada-Britain Pact

Canadian Press
Birmingham, Eng., March 2.—The Ottawa trade agreement was upheld by Hon. G. H. Ferguson, former president of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, in an unscheduled debate at a luncheon yesterday in connection with the British Industries Fair.

Mr. Rodgers, president of the Birmingham section of the fair, remarked: "I wish somebody would tell us what the value of the Ottawa agreement is. Some of us have very grave doubts about it."

The Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, a guest at the luncheon, promptly rose to declare the Ottawa trade agreement was the first step in the history of the empire to draw the constituent parts of the empire closer together economically.

"Nobody expects a novel undertaking of this kind would be without its difficulties, but they are difficulties we must learn to overcome," Mr. Ferguson added, "with goodwill on both sides."

"I am sure you will become conscious in time that the Ottawa agreement is a godsend to Britain as well as to Canada. Canadian trade with Britain has grown 30 per cent in the last ten months, and Canadian trade with the United States has correspondingly been reduced."

J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Centre, through interlocking directorates the large banks now controlled the main business and industrial concerns of the country and leading bankers held memberships on the boards of universities and educational institutions. They also had a share in the ownership of the press, he said. So the real life of the country, industrial, educational and cultural was controlled by a few men. While he had no animus against bankers, Mr. Woodsworth served notice that if his party, the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, came into power he would take prompt and effective steps to put an end to this dictatorship of the few.

ONE-FIFTH OF WEALTH
Three financiers, Sir Herbert Holt, Sir Charles Gordon and W. A. Black, said E. J. Garland, U.P.A., Bow River, between them controlled nearly $8,000,000,000 worth of property, or about one-fifth of the total wealth of Canada.

MR. COOTE SPEAKS

G. G. Coote, U.P.A., MacLeod, claimed the banks, being the major source of loans, controlled the economic life of the Dominion to a greater extent than any other influence.

A series of mergers and purchases over a period of thirty years had built up great banking organizations so powerful that one alone controlled twenty-eight per cent of the business in Canada, and the "Big Three," Bank of Montreal, Royal Bank of Canada and Canadian Bank of Commerce, controlled seventy per cent of the whole, Mr. Coote said. These three largely influenced the course of the remaining smaller banks.

IN INDUSTRIES
Mr. Coote went further and declared that by a system of interlocking directorates these banks controlled also the chief industries of the Dominion. He read a list of more than 100 large industries in the Dominion on whose directorates were to be found the directors of the leading Canadian banks.

Through interlocking directorates the banks controlled industry, Mr. Coote said. Through industry they controlled advertising and through advertising they exerted a great influence over the newspapers. They wielded more power over the economic life of Canada than any government ever could, Mr. Coote said, and which every party assumed power after the next election, the real governing authority would remain with the banks.

INVESTMENT TRUSTS

The banks had reduced their loans to business and increased their holdings of government bonds to such an extent they were becoming investment trusts instead of banks, Mr. Coote stated. They had ceased practically to finance agriculture.

The banks were also practically refusing to finance some municipalities, and in other cases had dictated the actions of municipalities.

He referred to the Calgary recommendations for improving the relations between banks and municipalities, and thought the government should provide some body to finance municipal corporations.

REPORTS DEMANDED

Returns showing their gross earnings and the disposition of these earnings should be demanded from the banks, he said. Also they should provide lists of their directors showing other companies in which they held directorships. Loans by banks with stocks and bonds as collateral should be practically prohibited, Mr. Coote thought. He also would have the banks prevented lending money outside Canada.

NAMING OF DIRECTORS

Mr. Coote suggested the government appoint one-half of the directors of all banks to make sure such groups as farmers, workers and small business men would have representation. He would also see that banks should provide credit for farmers and municipalities or establish other agencies to do this.

FUTURE POLICY
William Irvine, U.P.A., Wetaskiwin, said the big thing to consider was the policy the banks would follow in the future. If they were to continue to restrict their credit, no great benefit would result from changes in the act.

The three largest banks—Montreal, Commerce and Royal—with their allied trust companies, held 832 directorships in leading companies of the Dominion, Mr. Irvine declared. Other banks were in about the same situation. He gave details of interlocking directorates. While directors of one bank were not directors of another, they united on boards of trust companies and other financial organizations.

NANAIMO FISH AND GAME ASSOCIATION

Nanaimo, March 2.—The annual meeting of the Nanaimo Fish and Game Association was held in the Eagles' Home Saturday evening. William McKinney taking the chair. Secretary-treasurer V. E. Harrison gave a resume of the year's activities. The speaker referred to the stocking of island lakes with fry, a policy inaugurated by the local association. Mr. Harrison was honored with a life membership of the executive for his services as secretary for the last twelve years.

Several resolutions were passed by the meeting, including a resolution that the daily bag limit for cohoes taken on the fly be raised from five to fifteen. That the association is opposed to any change for the present in the open season for fishing in Cowichan River, Cowichan Lake or Watnaden, and that Nanaimo River be stocked with trout. The meeting also went on record as being in favor of the use of salmon roe in the waters of Vancouver Island for trout and steelhead fishing, so long as the importation of salmon roe was allowed in the province and its sale to the public permitted. The following officers were elected: President, T. B. Booth; vice-president, E. Bailey; secretary-treasurer, L. Beaver-Potts; members of the executive, J. Craig, South Wellington; Eric Keighley, Departure Bay; James Milton, Five Acres and Northfield; L. Stevens, Extension; H. Wilson and O. Fossum, Nanaimo.

EQUALIZATION FUND

London, March 2 (Associated Press).—Operations of the sterling equalization account will be continued indefinitely, Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared in the House of Commons yesterday. Asked if there was any prospect of the fund being wound up at an early date, Mr. Chamberlain replied: "No sir."

About 15 per cent of Slam's total import trade of more than $10,000,000 is made up of foodstuffs.

Available Work Of Company Spread

Canadian Press
Montreal, March 2.—Notice was given to employees of the Bell Telephone Company yesterday that the 10 per cent reduction in wages now in effect would be reduced to 5 per cent, effective April 1. J. E. McPherson, vice-president, also announced the policy of spreading available work would remain unchanged and all employees would continue on a short-time basis.

By the reduction of the pay cut and the continuation of the short-time schedule, the vice-president stated, the minimum reduction of individual earnings from the basic rates would be approximately 9 per cent. In some departments the reduction would be greater.

THE PEACE AND A RAILWAY

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS AT OTTAWA has passed a resolution that the Peace River country should be connected by a direct railway route to this coast "when circumstances permit." This is not a new argument in transportation development. A good case has been made out; but there are many aspects of it that will have to be carefully studied before the country is taxed with the cost of building the railway. Indeed, it may be found that when the national exchequer is in a position to stand the drain, railway progress will have been made to such an extent that modern systems of the iron way will be out of date, and that less costly methods will be available.

In regard to conditions in the British Columbia section of the Peace River Block—Alberta has much the larger portion and the better land—Mr. Clive Planta, the member of the local Legislature for the newly-created electoral riding of Peace River, contends that before there is any more ballyhoo about a railway outlet to the Pacific Coast there must be a general house-cleaning in the area itself. By this he means that many of the settlers who went into this part of British Columbia will have to be transferred to other sections of it in order to enable them to produce sufficient to sustain themselves and make a living. They went in on the understanding that there soon would be a railway to the coast. Their enthusiasm over this prospect ran away with their better judgment. Thus Mr. Planta wants no repetition of the initial mistake—misfits on the land. He put it this way in his speech in the Legislature last week: "Our first objective should be the stabilization of the British Columbia section of the Peace River district as a progressive, industrious area, with no lessening anticipation of any early completion of a railway outlet to the coast."

It will be noted that the resolution passed by the House of Commons at Ottawa favored the building of a railway from the Peace River Block only "when circumstances permit." It would then seem to be in order to suggest that in the meantime the Dominion government, in co-operation with the governments of British Columbia and Alberta, take stock of the situation on the lines advocated by Mr. Planta in the Legislature last week. He pointed out, incidentally, that the Alberta section would gain much more from an outlet to the coast than would the British Columbia section. He quoted a Peace River newspaper item showing that the district had relatively little to ship by rail for sale in the domestic markets of the coast. Industry and commerce should be decentralized, he maintained, in order to make a success of the line. The millions of dollars necessary for building a railway could not be justified if in the process the things essential to securing economic traffic, and in the meantime a comfortable livelihood for the people of the area, were left undone.

Mr. Planta also emphasized the fact that many recent settlers in the area located on land, sight unseen, and discovered that it was incapable of being brought into production excepting through years of struggle. Having come from the prairies they were attracted to forested lands which provided abundant fuel supply and which was surveyed as good land. The "hit and miss" methods of settlement permitted by late governments had resulted in the haphazard location and poorly-directed establishment of the newcomers in the province.

Now that new attention has been drawn to the Peace River Block, both in the Dominion House and the British Columbia Legislature, it is to be hoped that mistakes of the past will be avoided and that a vast area of productive land in the two western provinces will get a "new deal" in the practical sense of the term.

MR. GALLOWAY'S NEW FIELD

AFTER TWENTY-ONE YEARS IN THE public service of British Columbia, Mr. John D. Galloway, who retired from the important position of provincial mineralogist last Wednesday, was the recipient of a fine tribute from members of the civil and mining engineering professions, allied organizations, and government officials yesterday.

Mr. Galloway is not leaving the province; he is going into business for himself as a consulting engineer, and it ought to be safe to predict for him a long, useful and successful career in the realm for which his wide knowledge and experience so adequately equip him. In every part of British Columbia Mr. Galloway is known to all the prospectors, the mining engineers of international fame, and the officers of companies who do mining business in a big way.

It was only natural that everything Mr. Galloway did in his official capacity was done thoroughly, for he got his training in that fine establishment of learning, McGill University. And he will take into his own private field a reputation and an experience which should stand him in good stead—and, of course, the best wishes of all who know him are assured.

REVOLUTIONIZING RAILROADING

IF THE NEW STREAMLINED, 200-FOOT Diesel-powered Union Pacific train, which is now on an exhibition tour of the United States, meets the expectations held out for it by the company for which it was built, railroad transportation on this continent is on the verge of complete revolution. It will render much of the present equipment obsolete, radically reduce the cost of transportation, and, by popularizing travel, help the railroads to get on their feet—once they have recovered from the loss involved in the strapping of the rolling-stock now used by them.

The new train, made of duralumin, is said to resemble a big caterpillar. It has no heavy steaming equipment but is propelled by a twelve-cylinder Diesel engine operated behind the blunt, rounded snout of the first car. Being constructed of light, strong duralumin, which is an aluminum alloy, its three cars weigh only 160,000 pounds against the 1,600,000 pounds of the present train, which means that the whole train carrying 116 passengers weighs less than a single standard Pullman car of the present equipment.

Its speed is 110 miles an hour, but if it maintains an average of eighty miles an hour it will be able to cross the continent in about fifty hours. In Canada a similar train would be able to make the trip from Vancouver to Toronto in two days comfortably. The Union Pacific expects to connect San Francisco with Chicago in thirty-two hours. Its cost of operation is said to be so cheap that it will haul passengers more cheaply than buses.

The new train is simply a sign of the times, a belated adjustment by railroad companies of their equipment to changing conditions, dictated by competition from airplanes and motor buses. It is surprising that this development did not take place sooner, since transportation, whether passenger or freight, is as much of a commodity as anything else and should be brought within the limits of the average pocket-book. Only a small proportion of the people on this continent can afford to travel on trains whose cost of construction and operation make this diversion a luxury.

The Union Pacific Railroad Company has ordered three additional trains of this type—one of six cars and the others of nine. The New York, New Haven and Hartford Company has ordered fifty streamlined coaches. Before long every important railroad in the United States will gradually replace its present equipment with the new type of train, which means that the Canadian companies will have to follow suit. The days of the old cumbersome cars with their heavy steel plates, lumbering along behind a big locomotive with its ridiculous cow-catcher—which never catches cows—appear to be nearing an end. Within the next decade it will not be regarded as a novelty to cross the continent by train by even the humblest individual in half the time that is now consumed in the process.

WIDE OF THE MARK

IT IS SOMEWHAT ASTONISHING WITH all the information that is so readily accessible that a member of the British House of Commons should expose his ignorance in a statement recently that "over half the population of Canada is made up of foreigners." There is no special reason, of course, why he should have on the tip of his tongue detailed statistics of all the racial origins of our population. But if he had spent five minutes in a reference library Hansard would have denied the record of such a palpable misrepresentation.

What this British parliamentarian might have made clear was that a little less—not a little more—than half the population of Canada trace their ancestry to other than British races. Here are the latest figures available:

| | Number | Per Cent |
|---------------------------|------------|----------|
| British races | 5,381,071 | 51.86 |
| French | 2,927,990 | 28.21 |
| Indians and Eskimos | 128,890 | 1.24 |
| Total | 8,437,951 | 81.31 |
| All other origins | 1,938,335 | 18.69 |
| Total | 10,376,786 | 100.00 |

We suggest that by no stretch of the imagination could the member of the British House of Commons who made the remark we have quoted, regard the French-Canadians as "foreigners," since they were here before the British, and the Indians and the Eskimos were here before the French. It is true, as The Toronto Star observes, that those of French origin in the compilation above include some who do not trace back to the early Canadian families, but, on the other hand, negroes and those of unspecified origin are included in the "all other" class, no matter how far back their families may have been Canadian, and, in that sense, British.

Consequently it can be definitely asserted that well over eighty per cent of the Dominion's population might be said to be of British origin if centuries of family residence in this country were included in the qualification. Indeed, if you take the population by country of birth, you will find that of the total of 10,376,786, no fewer than 8,069,258, or nearly seventy-eight per cent, were born in Canada; 1,138,943, or 10.99 per cent, in the British Isles, and 45,887, or 4.3 per cent, in other British colonies, while the foreign-born account for 1,122,698, or 10.82 per cent.

With nearly seventy-eight per cent of the Canadian people born in Canada, subject to all the influences of Canadian life and customs in their upbringing, the suggestion that "over half the population of Canada is made up of foreigners" is foolish and obviously very wide of the mark.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

SITTING DOWN
The Renfrew Mercury

The Ottawa Journal thinks that speeches in Parliament would be less verbose and contain more common sense if a rule were made that all who speak shall remain seated. Law-makers of the two major provinces seem to entertain along one line at least, an idea similar to the Journal's. In Quebec it is permissible to drink beer and wine in hotels only while sitting down; in Ontario we are going to have the same law a few months hence, it would seem. Perhaps the world might be reformed by having all chairs and benches and pews made more comfortable, coupled with a great increase in their number.

BRITISH ISLES MOVING WEST
The Boston Transcript

The hungry sea that is so eating into Cape Cod is also at work on the eastern coast of England, where cliffs are slowly crumbling into the unrelenting surf and carrying with them buildings that were once standing far from any imagined danger. However, in England a compensating process is going on, for the western shore of the island is gaining on the sea, and in some places fishermen's cottages that used to be just a few steps above high tide, are now far from the water's edge. Brooding over these matters, somebody advances the theory that the British Isles are being cut off more and more from the European continent by the sea and being built up to the westward, and that eventually they will cross the Atlantic and turn up at our very doors.

Across the Bay

March begins tamely enough—with a simple agricultural talk from Mr. Strachan—an earnest and philosophical plea from Mr. Savage—a belated protest from Mr. Price—and another sharp reprimand from Mr. Speaker.

By H. B. W.

LAMB

MARCH came into the Legislature on Thursday, as usual, like a lamb. But as Mr. McOerle was due to speak to-day, perhaps it will grow some teeth and claws before it is much older.

Thursday was another day of sound talk, but not exciting, and it showed, with a small cross-section, the strange conflicts and confusions in men's minds in these days, and also the wide diversity among the members of the assembly. First came Mr. Strachan, a hard-headed farmer, who sees our problem in the terms of men on the land; then Mr. Savage, to whom the whole depression and the ills of mankind generally are a moral problem entirely; and lastly Mr. Price, of the C.C.F., to whom any talk of reform under capitalism is nonsense.

Mr. Strachan, from Dewdney, gave us a simple, matter-of-fact talk about agriculture which, apparently, is in a worse way even than this House had supposed. Indeed, according to Mr. Strachan, not a farmer in British Columbia, unless he has some particular corner on a market, is making his expenses. The whole agricultural industry, he says, is going into the red and hundreds are losing their farms for taxes.

Admitting all the difficulties involved, Mr. Strachan feels that the only solution is the stabilization of farm prices by legislation. He would start with the Vancouver milk situation, where the spread between the miserable ten cents a gallon paid to the producer and the price paid by the consumer is intolerable. A system of zoning milk deliveries to eliminate duplication and cut down expenses is essential, he thinks.

Then the country must tackle in earnest the problem of the Oriental, who is sweeping the land, and the coming up the valley to the interior. Somehow, says Mr. Strachan, we must preserve the valley of the Fraser for the white races, but so far no one has explained how.

COWICHAN

MR. SAVAGE, the country editor and globe-trotter of Cowichan, made an impression of deep sincerity in his maiden speech, but it is doubtful that he had any effect on the government. As he admitted frankly, he didn't really expect to have.

He speaks in a quiet voice, which it is difficult for him to raise above a conversational tone. He speaks in a language of high aspiration, not often heard in the House. Philosophically his speech left no doubt as to his place in politics—he is a Conservative of Conservatives, preaching the doctrine of Conservatism in a fashion which must command the respect of the most rabid Liberals.

To Mr. Savage the whole problem of the time is simple enough—we must be honest in the old-fashioned way and pay our bills. No fancy economics, national credit, revision of debt or high-brow theories for him. If we can't stop our wild spending then the Dominion had better take over all the functions of government here and save us from ourselves, says Mr. Savage. The fact that there is no legal provision for any such arrangement does not disturb Mr. Savage. Let us make such a provision if we have to, he says. And Mr. Patullo, realizing that here is a man of an alien philosophy but a man of character, watches him with a rather puzzled look, as if he wondered how a fellow of intelligence could acquire such notions.

MATHEMATICS

GETTING DOWN TO CASES, Mr. Savage finds that our average cost of government is twenty-four millions of dollars a year, or about nineteen cents for every man, woman and child. Therefore, we must cut our costs five millions (which, with debt charges of twelve would leave us two millions to run the country) or raise five millions of new revenue. How to do that Mr. Savage did not explain in detail. He offered a plan of reducing the House to thirty members with an indemnity of only $1,000 (which must have sent cold shivers down the spines of members from the big country ridings) and cutting the cabinet to five, with salaries of $5,000 a year. But all these Spartan economies, he admitted, would save only $70,000. When he advocated the construction of a highway to the Peace River country, the government looked as if it found difficulty in following Mr. Savage's mathematics.

But that was only a detail. What Mr. Savage really wants is a general overhaul of our whole spending habits, for we have been spending like a drunkard and, like a drunkard's family, our people are suffering in consequence. If a drunkard won't reform himself then, says Mr. Savage, some agency must be set up to look after him. Anyway, while it may be all right to arrange to defer debt payments or reduce interest by agreement, we must pay our debts. Let us be British, says Mr. Savage, and having got ourselves into the mess, get ourselves out, instead of going, like weak children, to Ottawa.

But after all, says Mr. Savage, it is more than a problem of finance and economics. It is, he says, without mentioning the Oxford Movement, of which he is a staunch prophet, a moral problem, a problem of reforming the individual. Until he is reformed, you can talk economics until you are exhausted, you can alter all the exterior arrangements of society and your entire economic system, but you will be no better off. Finally Mr. Savage, the philosophic Conservative and Oxford, Grouper, introduces the Sermon on the Mount and the name of Jesus into this assembly for the first time by a ten-minute quotation from Mr. Mackenzie King, the Liberal Party leader, thus showing that his personal convictions are far above party labels.

ACTUALITIES

MR. PRICE, who wound up the day, is the fighting radical, and labor union man. He speaks fluently and cogently and seems a human and likeable sort. He doesn't believe in vague theories or doctrinaire lectures on Socialism. He prefers to talk of actual things as they are. The first actual thing which Mr. Price finds on looking over the political scene is that the C.C.F. polled 105,000 votes in the last election and the Liberal Party only 130,000, and if that doesn't mean something what does? says Mr. Price.

He sees our politics as a fight between the C.C.F. and two old-line parties which actually are one in philosophy and secret control, for both are financed by campaign funds from the same sources, and the fellows who pay the piper call the tune. As for Liberal policy, Mr. Price is skeptical because up to now Work and Wages have been applied only to good Liberal workers. The Liberal policy, even if carried out, won't save the situation, he fears, but if the government will really introduce some forward-looking legislation, the C.C.F. will support it. Mr. Price got into, by brief, disfigured wrangle with Mr. Bruhn, when he accused him of trying to make a deal with the C.C.F. and eliminate the C.C.F. candidate in Salmon Arm in the last election. This Mr. Bruhn denied, but Mr. Price, while bound to accept any honorable member's word in the House, didn't seem in the least convinced.

GOOSE

HE CONCLUDED with some good figures on the forestry situation which, on account of the present loggers' strike, is of particular interest to his party. The logging operators, he said, were publishing large advertisements blaming their loggers for "killing the goose that lays the golden egg." Whereas, in fact, the operators themselves, by gross waste and inefficient management, were rapidly extinguishing our entire forest wealth. Incidentally, he took a fling at the non-enforcement of all labor laws in British Columbia, which had the most advanced social legislation and the most inefficient administration of them in Canada.

It is clear now that the debate cannot be finished until the middle of next week, when the budget will come down, much earlier than usual. Meanwhile the only intriguing event of the day was Mr. Speaker's sharp reprimand to hon. members for admitting so many visitors to the floor of the House. Mr. Speaker had warned them before that all their friends weren't "distinguished visitors" entitled to this honor, but on looking over the floor to-day he discovered that the per capita population of distinguished personages in the province had grown again at an amazing rate.

This increase in distinction might by gratifying to historians, but Mr. Speaker was only annoyed. He sent another sharp reminder to the hon. members and resolved that in future he would examine the name of every applicant himself. After all, in a Legislature as talented as Mr. Patullo considers this one, a man must be peculiarly distinguished to sit on the floor with it.

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
March 2, 1909
(From The Times Files)

At a fairly well attended meeting of citizens last evening it was decided to press upon the Legislature the right of the city to be heard at the bar of the House upon the subject of the ratification of the city's rights to water within the twenty-mile radius.

The credit of Victoria stands high on the money market. Yesterday $265,000 worth of debentures were placed which netted the city $26.17. The purchasers were the Good-Gundy Company of Toronto.

An unusually interesting and instructive paper was given last evening before the Natural History Society on the subject of lake and ocean undulations by F. Napier Denison. The paper was illustrated by a large number of slides, which added to the enjoyment of the members.

To-morrow Alderman Turner, chairman of the streets committee, Alderman Henderson, chairman of the finance committee, and the city engineer, C. H. Topp, will leave for Portland, Oregon, to inspect the bitulithic paving there with the object of deciding how it is adopted for Victoria. This was decided upon at a meeting of the City Council which was held last evening.

About eighty natives of Wales last evening attended the banquet held in the Sir William Wallace Hall, Broad Street, to celebrate St. David's Day and to form the new Cyffwrddorion Society. The banquet is the second annual one, and the formation of the society was carried out with much enthusiasm.

KING ALBERT I OF BELGIUM

To the Editor:—One of the Roman emperors, presumably Caesar Augustus, considered life a huge drama and all human beings actors. When dying he said to those present, "I have come to the end of my part—have I well played my role?"

Had King Albert had a death-bed and had he asked a similar question, the reply would undoubtedly have been: "Sir, you have played perfectly the part that you alone could have played!"

Those who knew him could best appreciate his sterling qualities brought out so strongly during the last war. He was naturally of a shy disposition, so much so that as a young lad, before the tragic death of his elder brother, the Prince Baudouin, he was thought rather backward! At the age of fifteen years he became the heir to the throne of Belgium and from that time on, he rose in the estimation of the Belgian people.

It was, for instance, always a trying time for him when as a tall, young man he was called upon to

AGAIN SEEKS CUT IN LAND

J. W. Rowland Will Ask Second Assessment Reduction Before Judge

Despite a reduction of one-third last year and a 10 per cent cut by this year's Court of Revision, J. W. Rowland, one of the largest land owners in Saanich, will again appeal to Judge Peter S. Lammiman for a further slice off his assessment, the municipal council was notified yesterday evening.

Mr. Rowland, who owns approximately 200 acres in the municipality, appealed to Judge Lammiman last year, as did the Hudson's Bay Company. On this occasion, both owners were granted a reduction of one-third, which resulted in the municipal as-essor making a sweeping readjustment and cutting all land and improvements by 33 1-3 per cent.

This year, Mr. Rowland again came before the Court of Revision and received a further cut of 10 per cent. In his appeal, however, he claims this was not sufficient, as the assessments are not based true to the Municipal Act, which sets out the assessment as being equivalent to the value for agricultural purposes.

This point of land valuation has been a burning question among those interested in land values and the outcome of this second appeal before the court will be awaited with considerable interest in Saanich at least, in view of the fact that another substantial cut may result in the necessity for a second blanket reduction.

A report on drainage conditions on Canterbury Avenue will be submitted by the municipal engineer to the Saanich Council at its next meeting. The council yesterday evening received a request from seven residents of the district asking improvement of the present unsatisfactory drainage system.

PRICES MUST BE STABILIZED

Legislation Essential to Prevent Agricultural Collapse, Says E. W. Strachan

"Stabilization of prices for agricultural produce by legislation was urged by D. W. Strachan, Liberal, Dewdney, in the debate in the Legislature yesterday. A move of this sort was essential to protect the farmers from losing their land and their homes, he said.

Mr. Strachan said at the outset of his remarks he had been surprised by the attempt of the Leader of the Opposition to shut off the debate, as he felt it was a great opportunity for members to become acquainted and, moreover, it implied the Divine injunction, "Come, let us reason together."

CONFUSIONS

He launched into a general discussion of agricultural problems, taking for comparison the north-western United States. British Columbia had an area of 376,000 square miles and Oregon had an area of 96,000 square miles.

British Columbia was not supplying all the agricultural products it consumed, the proportion being only about 10 per cent. He outlined how Oregon supplied goods for a large area.

Mr. Strachan then dealt with matters affecting his own constituency of Dewdney, where the people are largely agriculturists.

DAIRYMEN SUFFERING

Nature had endowed the valley with every advantage that could be conceived and dairying especially had developed to a large extent. This industry, however, had suffered in common with others, and it had reached the stage in some cases where the store was a man had the worse off he was, because every cow became a liability, due to feed costs and low prices of products. He submitted figures showing how many were behind in their tax payments.

In the dyking districts, 119 farmers had lost their properties for failure to pay the dyking taxes, and 60 per cent of the entire 2,045 farmers were delinquent and threatened with loss of their property.

DYKES BIG ASSET

Something should be done to alleviate this condition, especially for those in the dyke areas, because by paying for the dykes the farmers were creating national assets of benefit to the province as a whole. In ordinary taxes in the unorganized area of the constituency, out of 649 farmers only 210 paid taxes last year, leaving 70 per cent delinquent. They were the type of men who would pay if it could possibly be done.

The farmers' troubles centred on prices. Milk, for instance, fetched only 2½ cents a quart, and yet statisticians claimed its food value was equal to a pound of beef. Surely no one would expect a pound of beef for 2½ cents.

"It will be absolutely necessary, if these prices are to be stabilized, to do it through legislation. This must be done at all costs to prevent the continuous dispossession of farmers for non-payment of taxes," he said. Another trouble in his riding was caused by Oriental intrusion. They were coming in a wave from the Coast and threatened to envelop the entire north side of the Fraser River now inhabited by white settlers. Something should be done to save the Fraser Valley for the white race, he insisted.

GORGE CLEAN SAYS CROUCH

Any fears which present or prospective waterfront residents of the Gorge may have had regarding pollution of the waters of the inlet, were allayed by Reeve William Crouch at a meeting of the Saanich Council yesterday evening.

"I have lived in the vicinity of the Gorge for years and have seen children swimming there by the thousands and not once have I heard a complaint about the condition of those waters. The notices posted by public health authorities regarding bacteria in this water are absurd. Naturally, there is bacteria there, the same as in all bodies of water, even in the Sooke water which we drink, but the condition certainly isn't serious enough to be of any danger whatever," he said.

"You can go down there any time during the summer and you will never see one drop of sewage," he continued. "In the winter the only water which runs in there is surface water."

"I don't think why the people are afraid of this water," commented Councillor L. C. Hagan. "All that most people can ever see is the natural scum which is placed by nature on all large bodies of water."

"I don't think these reports are true, but if they are, I think we ought to get a report and make a definite statement on their safety," said Councillor G. S. Eden.

The discussion arose from a complaint regarding recent press notices complaining of the condition of the water, sent in by a real estate owner, who said he had lost the sale of a waterfront lot because of these notices.

The reeve pointed out the waters were not actually in the council's jurisdiction and were really a Dominion responsibility. He promised, however, to have recent rumors denied for the benefit of the property owners.

TAX INCREASE NOT EXPECTED

Little Indication of Higher Saanich Levy Unless Government Revenue Cut

While a great deal depends on the grants to be made to municipalities this year by the provincial government, which will be outlined when Hon. John Hart presents his budget to the Legislature next week, there is every indication that little increase will be effected in Saanich taxes this year. Providing the government makes no reductions in present grants, and if some measure of relief can be given the municipalities, it is probable Saanich will be able to operate during 1934 with the rate set last year of forty-two mills on land and on 20 per cent of improvements.

Preliminary discussion for this year's budget was slated for the meeting of the council held yesterday evening, but owing to the length of other matters, draft copies of the estimates were presented to members of the council for private consideration before the discussion in committee.

The drafts presented merely showed actual expenditures in all departments during 1933, and it was generally estimated every effort would be made to at least keep within expenses of last year.

The council has received the budgets of both the school board and the police commission, the former having been adopted, while the latter is awaiting acceptance. Both of these estimate expenditures for this year will be kept approximately within those of last year, and unless anything unforeseen should occur, the through will depend largely upon estimates for this year.

The council has been urgently requested this year to try and see its way clear towards making a grant to alleviate the serious financial condition of the Jubilee Hospital. The request was made for $3,000, and whether or not this can be put through will depend largely upon estimates for expenditures in other departments. The council is in full sympathy with the directors' predicament and realize fully the seriousness of the problem which faces them. It is possible this item, if included, will constitute the only increased expenditure for this year.

SEEK DONATION FOR HOSPITAL

Jubilee Directors Stress Dire Need for Financial Aid From Saanich

An urgent appeal for assistance in the financing of the Jubilee Hospital was made to the Saanich Council yesterday evening by a delegation from the board.

The delegation consisted of S. J. Drake, James Forman, George McGregor, former Saanich reeve; J. V. Roberts and D. D. Muir.

All but Mr. Muir, stressing the fact that the hospital was in dire need of municipal and civic aid. It was pointed out Saanich had not found it possible to make a grant since 1931, when the donation was $2,000. The directors requested $3,000 this year if such could possibly be included in this year's estimates.

LODGE GREET'S HIGH OFFICER

Special Meeting of Royal Arcanum Welcomes Supreme Vice-regent

A special meeting of the Royal Arcanum was held Wednesday to welcome the supreme vice-regent, Brother Milton A. Wilmont of the New York Council, and Brother R. Pence, grand master of Washington and British Columbia.

Brother Wilmont gave an address covering his trip. He pointed out that the Royal Arcanum was formed for the purpose of creating the true spirit of fraternity and that this object should be the aim of every council. Brother Pence gave an interesting talk.

Brother Wilmont presented to Regent Brother Applegate the Canadian flag that was won in the last contest.

Following the speeches the lodge was closed for the purpose of seeing Geoffrey Cummings give an interesting display of sleight of hand. The following members contributed to the programme: Brother Applegate, saxophone solo; Brother Armistead, piano solo; and Brother Doug Park, vocal solo, after which refreshments were served.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Although this may seem a premature consideration of summer travel many readers are already mapping out their summer tours. Not infrequently I am asked to decide whether a trip should or should not be taken. It is a decision which I am reluctant to make. The mother knows her children's reaction to change, and it is this knowledge which must inevitably weigh the decision for or against a trip.

INCONVENIENCE

Most of us react in some measure to abrupt changes unless we have been insured to them by constant traveling. The inevitable differences of water and food experienced almost hourly on a motor trip and the constant irritation of heat and fatigue are the enemies to the comfort and well being of the small traveler.

It is possible that children would suffer little or no inconvenience from travel were their parents capable of taking trips more slowly. But the adult's determination to get where he is going in the shortest possible time, and return ditto, gives the child no opportunity for relaxation during the day or for refreshing sleep at night. Swift travel means constant motion and tension, with the whole family irritable and worn out by the end of the day.

The smaller the child the more drastic is his reaction to the unusual routine. The mother must have her trip planned so carefully that every factor is accounted for. She must manage to furnish the same food, and at the same hours to which the child is accustomed. She must use boiled water, instead of relying upon dubious supplies from every town where the child demands a drink. She must be particularly cautious about strange foods which might be well taken on an orderly and unemotional day.

"Lucia di Lammermoor" adapted from Sir Walter Scott's novel "The Bride of Lammermoor" has for its theme the conflict between Lucy of Lammermoor's love for Edgar of Ravenswood and the deadly hatred of their two families for each other. The opera will be sung in Italian, with the following complete cast: Lucy, Lily Pons, soprano; Alice, Eda Vetterli, soprano; Edgar, Nino Martin, tenor; Lord Henry Ashton, Giuseppe De Luca, baritone; Raymond, Leon Tedesco, tenor; Norman, Angelo Bada, tenor.

FOUND GERMAN WOMEN WEARY

Toronto "Y" Secretary Tells of Nazi "Bribes" to Motherhood

Canadian Press

New York, March 2.—By all kinds of clever devices the Nazi Government is being led into paths of party approval, said Miss Gertrude Steel-Brooke of Toronto, a Young Women's Christian Association secretary, recently returned from an investigation of the situation in Germany.

Reich's loan account of 1,000 marks (about $200) provides any working woman wishing to marry with the wherewithal for furnishing a modest home, Miss Steel-Brooke said. The Nazi Government is offering a loan of 1,000 marks to any woman who marries.

Germany's rising generation, in its idealism, is being exposed early to state indoctrination, she said. The young are being conditioned to accept uncritically in their mature years the present dictum of the state, Miss Steel-Brooke reports.

Physical education, she said, is being emphasized in the schools, and the young are being conditioned to accept uncritically in their mature years the present dictum of the state, Miss Steel-Brooke reports.

MISSION WORK IS EFFECTIVE

Miss Katherine Robbins Describes Progress Made in Honan Diocese

Delegates to Columbia W.A. Entertained at "The Deanery" Yesterday

The effectiveness of mission work in China was described in an interesting address by Miss Katherine Robbins, missionary on furlough from Honan, before a large audience assembled in the Memorial Hall under the auspices of the Diocesan board of the Columbia Women's Auxiliary yesterday evening. Rev. Canon A. E. D. L. Nunns acted as chairman and led the opening devotions.

Recalling that the work of Christian missions began in Honan twenty-three years ago, Miss Robbins told of the establishment of the girls' and boys' boarding schools, a hospital and clinics as an outgrowth of the mission work, the work having prospered and given much valuable practical as well as spiritual assistance to the native community.

WELL-EQUIPPED HOSPITAL

The speaker gave an interesting description of the hospital, which has recently been equipped with a new wing and fifty more beds. The X-ray department had been the greatest boon and a motor ambulance, which was sent with medicinal equipment, two doctors and teachers to the country districts where medical aid was unknown except in its crudest form. One hundred patients were seen daily during the country visits and during the consultations opportunity was given to the teachers and evangelists of spreading the Gospel story.

Work among the illiterate Christian Chinese women was touched upon by Miss Robbins as one of her own special interests, and she told of the difficulties which confronted many of the Bible women in teaching them to read. She said a warm tribute to Bishop White, whose hospitality was particularly keen, and who had done so much in the Honan Mission.

The address was interspersed with many interesting reminiscences and personal experiences of the speaker, and at the close she called for questions from the audience responding and bringing out many more interesting facts concerning the value of mission work.

At the close of her address, Miss Robbins was presented with a beautiful bouquet of spring flowers on behalf of the auxiliary. Canon Nunns conveying the thanks of the gathering to the speaker for her enlightening discourse.

MISSIONARY PLAY

The Girls' W.A. of St. Mary's Church then presented a beautiful missionary play, "The Conversion of the Honorable Mrs. Ling," which was directed by Miss Robbins and Miss G. H. Llewellyn. The stage settings were particularly charming and those taking part were Grace White, Nora Gault, Violet Fields, Mollie Sheppard, Mollie Scott, Betty Thorne, Margaret Kerr, Alice Down, Winston Gardin, Phyllis Corbett, Pauline Gill, Pat Cokell and Dorothy Pile.

"AT HOME" AT DEANERY

Over 100 members and delegates to the Columbia W.A. annual sessions at the Columbia W.A. deanery, which was held at the deanery, in the afternoon, where they were welcomed by Mrs. Quinlan, and the diocesan president and officers of the executive, Mrs. Schofield being specially welcomed. Miss Robbins was present, also Mrs. Finch, from Cumberland.

The members were privileged to see the church embroidery guild "in action," and a display of its really beautiful work aroused much interest and admiration.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

One of the most interesting and important articles in the whole category of foods is soup. There's such a variety from which to choose that one might almost serve a different soup every day in the year and then not exhaust the possibilities. Besides the stimulating consommés and bouillons, the delicate luncheon concoctions, the bisques and the cream soups, there are the hearty soups and savory chowders that make satisfying whole meals. And then there are the exotic and delicious fruit soups.

The canned soups are available in innumerable varieties and meats and combinations. They all are excellent and save much time for the busy housewife. Consommés and bouillions in particular take much time and patience to make in the

AWARD WOMAN HALF MILLION

Californian Wins Long Battle for Share of Flood Estate

Associated Press

Redwood City, Cal., March 2.—Accustomed to doing her own housework, including the irksome task of washing dishes, Mrs. Constance May Gavin has come into possession of nearly half a million dollars after seven years' effort to prove herself the daughter of the late James L. Flood, pioneer western mining man.

In a final settlement of the bitterly fought court case, Superior Judge William James Wednesday signed the final papers which gave the wife of a Los Angeles bank clerk cash and property valued at $461,258, and her various attorneys and representatives an aggregate of $521,176.

But the settlement, at the request of the recognized Flood heirs, stipulated that Mrs. Gavin was to have the right of the mining man and the first trial of her case here ended with a directed verdict in favor of the Flood heirs.

Her attorneys introduced evidence that following her birth in May, 1893, she was taken into the Flood household. Various elderly retainers employed by the Flood family, who knew her as his daughter, while the defence contended Flood merely had taken care of the child out of pity.

home kitchen, but the canned or "cubed" varieties are easy to use and may be substituted as convenient.

ITALIAN SOUP

Two medium sized Bermuda onions, 2 tablespoons butter, 4 cups brown stock or 4 bouillon cubes and 4 cups water or 1 can bouillon and equal amount of water, 4 slices bread, 1 cup grated cheese.

Melt butter and add onions peeled and very thinly sliced. Cook over a low fire until tender and a rich brown. Beat stock to the boiling point and add to onions. Simmer five minutes. Toast bread. Put a slice of bread in each soup plate or bowl and pour the hot soup with the onions over it. Sprinkle with cheese and serve with the dish of grated cheese for each person to help himself to more as he likes.

SALT CODFISH CHOWDER

One-half pound salt codfish, 3 medium sized potatoes, 1 good onion, 2 slices salt pork, 1 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon thyme, 2 cups water, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 2 cups milk, water crackers.

Easy Carnera Wins Way To Decision Over Game Loughran

Champion Fails To Land Single Damaging Punch

CARNERA WON ON "FOOTWORK"

Loughran States His Only Injury Came When Primo Stepped on His Foot

VICTORIA BLUE RIBBONS were to-day discussing their chances of winning the Pacific northwest basketball tournament at Seattle, March 7, 8 and 9. Wednesday evening at the High School the Canadian champs leaped the first hurdle when they smothered Everett Shadoff by an eighteen-point margin in a sudden-death game for the right to compete in the Sound City classic, along with seven other teams from the northwest. It was the first real test for the 1933-34 edition of the Ribbons and they came through, even though their performance was not to the standard of several previous performances this season. In the Seattle tournament the Ribbons will be up against competition that will be just as stiff, if not stiffer, than experienced in the Canadian championship playoffs last spring. The entrants will be flavored with such high calibre clubs as Gilmore, Or and Union Oil teams of Seattle. Composed mostly of former university players, these teams are going to take a lot of beating. The Ribbons, however, were handled by the Ribbons-Everett engagement, when questioned regarding the local team's chances in the tournament, declared they had better than an outside chance to win.

An interesting coincidence in regard to the Ribbons' win over Everett was brought to light today. Just twenty-seven years ago the Victoria Y.M.C.A. quietly journeyed to Everett during the course of a northwest tour and defeated the Everett team 34 to 29. That game was played on March 7, 1907, and the Victoria team was composed of Bob White, Nelson Goss, Tommy Nutt, Roy McKittrick, Jim Pettigrew and Johnny Peden. The leading scorer for the Victoria team was Nutt with thirteen points, while White scored twelve. The teams were tied 18 to 18 at half-time. The Everett line-up was as follows: Meagher, Shelly, Dalquist, Ridgeway, Stansbury and Dalquist. Later became Pacific Coast high jump champion, while Shelly made good as a major league baseballer.

Max Baer, a $500,000 gate attraction in the estimation of Jack Dempsey, is revealed as a ring "pauper" by his close friends. Being a home town hero, the California flatie, who some day may wear the world heavyweight crown, has been unable to earn a suitable living for himself from the ring, it is stated, and for that reason is taking advantage of his popularity before the footlights. Although the victory of his spectacular victory over Max Schmeling, has ascended to the foremost position among the present heavyweights and stands to draw down a number of big purses it is unlikely that his bankroll will bulge until a dozen managerial extractors are looted off.

At the present time seventy per cent of each purse he receives is cut up among a group of managers. Nearly ten per cent more goes for other expenses, including trainers and sparring partners. At that rate Baer actually gets about twenty per cent for himself. Being a notorious playboy, his living expenses are far greater than the money he derives from boxing. Inasmuch as his fight managers are able to cut in on his movie and vaudeville contracts, Baer has taken that method of earning some cash for himself.

Australia appears to have another Bradman in the making in the fifteen-year-old James Badcock, who is known as "Buddy" Bradman. He scored a double-century for Tasmania against the Victoria second eleven and recently hit up a brilliant 161 in the relative ease.

Badcock's brilliant batting against Jaffie's team in Tasmania and his prolific scoring during the present season have already brought him into the limelight. He is to tour New Zealand this month with the Australian team under Victor Richardson.

Against the bowling of Bowes, Tate, Mitchell and Brown, Badcock scored fifty-seven in Tasmania's first innings and carried his bat for forty-three in the second. He is a short, sturdy-built, right-hand opening batsman with a wonderful defence and some fine legging. He is expected to form all the week and only plays cricket during the week-end. There have been many rumors that he would join a Melbourne club and thus qualify for the Australian test team. It is freely predicted that when the M.C.C. visits Australia in 1934-7 Badcock will be in the Australian team. There is a remarkable similarity both in mannerisms and batting between Badcock and Bradman.

David Mangnall, the Huddersfield centre forward, has been transferred to Birmingham after a period of five years with the Yorkshire club in the English Football League. Mangnall has made frequent appearances for Huddersfield in league matches and has scored sixty-seven goals during his career. His bustling type of play should be a great asset to Birmingham, whose attack has lacked that little extra thrust. Mangnall appeared in sixteen league matches this season for the Town and has already played in cup-ties for his old club.

Born in Yorkshire, Mangnall first played for Malby Colliery. He later had trials with Rotherham, Huddersfield and Doncaster, but was not retained. Leeds gave him his first chance and he did so well as a goal scorer that Huddersfield secured his services during the 1929-30 season. In 1931-32 he scored thirty-three goals in thirty-four matches, but a succession of injuries kept him out of the game last season.

University School and Wanderers, Intermediate League teams, will play a friendly rugby match at the Mount Tormie grounds to-morrow afternoon commencing at 2.45 o'clock.

Miami, March 2.—Here is what the champion and challenger had to say after yesterday evening's heavyweight title bout:

Tommy Loughran—"I thought I had the battle won until the eleventh when Carnera stepped on my foot and injured me for the first and only time in the fifteen rounds. I landed the cleaner blows and, if the officials had only penalized Primo for that, as well as his elbowing, back-handing and hitting on the breaks, I am sure they would have been forced to turn over the championship."

Primo Carnera—"Those fifteen rounds against Loughran will do me the world of good. I was surprised by Tommy's showing. I was the best heavyweight performance he ever gave."

"He didn't hurt me at any time, but his weaving and bobbing tactics did not expect from him, did prevent me from knocking him out. I am glad I didn't. He is a game boy. I know now that I must fight often, about once a month, to be at my best. I'll fight anyone, but I hope my next one will be with Max Baer."

Clash in Feature Soccer Fixture Saturday; Play-off Game in Second Division

Final matches in the third round of the second half schedule of the Coast Football League are to be played to-morrow afternoon, will see the Sanich Thistles, present leaders, battling Esquimalt, at Heywood Avenue, and Victoria West, second berth occupants, opposing Victoria City, at Beacon Hill, lower ground. All matches are scheduled to commence at 3 o'clock.

Facing a one-point lead over the greenhorns in the second half race, the Thistles will be out to take the measure of the Dockers and by so doing remain at the top of the ladder. Esquimalt put up a good fight against the Wests last week and emerged with a draw. To-morrow afternoon they will be out to lower the colors of the Dockers.

WATROUS HAS FIRST PLACE

Sets Pace in West Coast Open Golf Championship With Score of 140

Bellair Heights, Fla., March 2.—Al Watrous, Detroit, with a total of 139, yesterday led the field in the West Coast open championship at the half-way mark.

He was pressed closely by Paul Runyan, White Plains, N.Y., who put together two excellent rounds of 72 and 71. He remained for Craig Wood, Deal, N.J., to take all the glory of the morning round when he equaled the competitive record for the course with a 67. Wood followed badly in the afternoon, taking a 78.

Babe Ruth of baseball fame, found battling against the pros, was pretty stiff competition, and 86 in the forenoon, then withdrew after trying a comeback in the second round.

The best round of the afternoon was played by Ky Laffoon, Denver, who turned in a 68.

Heavyweight Titleholder Unable to Even Put Veteran Philadelphian Down

Smallest Gate For Many Years

By Alan Gould, Associated Press Sports Writer

Miami, Fla., March 2.—Due exclusively to his superior poundage and power, the combination of which proved entirely too much for even the lion-hearted challenge of Tommy Loughran to offset in fifteen wearying rounds, Primo Carnera retains possession of the world heavyweight boxing championship to-day and turns his thoughts toward the completion of negotiations to meet his next rival, Max Baer.

The title was just about all that the mountainous man from Italy had to show for his ponderous efforts yesterday evening in clubbing back the attempt of Loughran to match his mere 184 pounds of beef and brawn.

The champion, in his second title defense since he knocked out Jack Sharkey last summer, won decisively enough. He gained the unanimous vote of the three officials and a margin in ten of the fifteen rounds, but he was unable to land a single punch with sufficient power to lodge Loughran from his feet. Carnera simply clubbed Loughran by a slow, cumbersome process into a state of weariness that after holding his own with a dazzling exhibition for the first ten rounds, Philadelphia Tommy lasted the closing five rounds mainly on raw courage and a display of boxing skill that never deserted him.

SMALL GATE

To the loser went whatever realistic laurels there were in a bizarre bout, fought between showmen before the smallest crowd and "gate" since prizefighting was an outlaw sport. Loughran thrilled the small crowd which cheered him as heartily as it had booed the champion's tactics from start to finish.

Pending an official count to-day it was estimated scarcely more than 15,000 spectators, of whom perhaps a third were there "on the side," witnessed the fight. Gate receipts were placed between $40,000 and $50,000.

ROUND ONE

Loughran danced lightly from his corner. Slipped under Carnera's left jab, and shot a long left to the body. The giant champion stormed in on Tommy, pressed him with his right hand across the ring, and as they swapped body punches, Tommy complained Carnera was stepping on his feet. Carnera leaped on the challenger and tumbled him across the ring, flinging him from side to side, and the crowd boomed as Loughran bobbed like a cork in a stormy sea. Carnera drove Tommy to the ropes, shot a left hook to the head, and a right to the body, and another left to the body. Tommy danced away instead and stabbed Carnera's head with his right jab, but the champion roared back at him, flinging about in his huge arms, nailing him with a hard uppercut to the head as the bell sounded.

ROUND TWO

ROUND THREE

Loughran took the offensive, jabbing Carnera's nose three times with a light left. As Carnera eluded the tiny challenger, started to hurl him again, the crowd howled again. The champ grinned and let Tommy loose. Loughran danced away lightly, but Carnera chased him into a corner, nailing him in his big arms and hurled him about on the ropes, clubbing lefts to the body, rights to the side of the head, as they feinted in the open. Carnera hit his challenger with a hard left hook to the head, but Tommy stopped short and belted the champ with a long straight right to the jaw. The crowd roared approval. Carnera fought back savagely, pounding off Tommy's arms with both his huge fists. Tommy pulled out of a dangerous spot in a corner to fling a left hook to the head and a right to the body, as the round ended.

ROUND FOUR

Dancing in swiftly, Tommy shot a left to the head and a right to the body. That angered the champion, so he picked Tommy up and almost hurled him through the ropes on one side of the ring. The referee warned him again, and Loughran danced (Turn to Page 17, Col. 3)

KIMBERLEY LOSES MEN

Three Members of Dynamiters Declared Ineligible for Hockey Play

Vancouver, March 2.—Ken Moore, G.B. McGillivray and R. W. Redding, stars on the Kimberley Dynamiters, finalists with Vancouver Quakers in the British Columbia senior amateur hockey race, have been declared ineligible for further competition in organized amateur hockey this season.

Art Jeffery, president of the British Columbia Hockey Association, to-day had received word from President R. W. Hewitt of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, that Dynamiters were eligible for Allan Cup competition providing the three players whose transfers the Saskatchewan body refused to sanction, did not play with them.

Moore, McGillivray and Redding went to Kimberley from the prairies last year and secured legitimate positions. The Saskatchewan refused to grant them transfers, maintaining they were not bona fide.

With the Saskatchewan body adamant in its refusal to grant the sanctions the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association was appealed to. The C.A.H.A.'s policy, however, is not to interfere with a provincial body and the Dominion organization advised that nothing could be done. It was stated, however, that Dynamiters would not be disqualified because of past games in which the three ineligible players had taken part.

Trail, March 2.—Kimberley Dynamiters and Vancouver Associated Quakers will play their three-out-of-five games for the British Columbia senior amateur hockey title here instead of Kimberley. It was announced yesterday evening.

Poor ice conditions at Kimberley necessitated the change of venue.

CAMPOLLO WINS BOUT

Whitney's Horse Wins in England

Gatwick, Eng., March 2.—J. H. "Jack" Whitney's steeplechaser, Double Crossed, at odds of 11 to 1 to-day, won the Twelfth steeplechase over two miles by a head from F. Wodland's Kilted. Nine other horses also ran.

VARSITY WINS CAGE TUSSLE

Defeats Province 27 to 25 in First Game of Mainland Finals; Osborne Star

Vancouver, March 2.—Bob Osborne's rifling shot, twenty-five seconds from the final whistle, gave University of British Columbia a 27 to 25 victory over Province in the first game of their three-out-of-five semi-final series of the senior British Columbia men's basketball championship.

The winners will meet Victoria Blue Ribbons, Dominion champions, in the final, and the right to travel east.

It was Province's first defeat in league play this season. Varsity took a 5 to 0 lead early in the first half, only to have the visitors tie it up and forge ahead a point. The students again went into the lead, and once more Province overhauled them to take their last lead of the game, 12 to 10.

Varsity led 22 to 15 at half-time. Province spurred in the last half and tied up the score for the third time, on Red Macdonald's basket, forty-five seconds before the end of the game.

Twenty seconds later, Osborne raced down the floor, took McDonald's pass and tossed the ball through the hoop for the winning basket and the final score of the game.

DILLON MAKES SCORING GAIN

Cecil Dillon, Rangers, moved into a first-place tie with Marty Barry, Boston, to-day in the big seven standings. He scored two goals when Rangers defeated Chicago 3 to 1 yesterday evening. The only other big seven star to add to his points was Paul Thompson, who tallied only one Chicago center.

B.C. Badminton Champions Score Easy Victories in Opening Rounds of Canadian Badminton Championships; Charlie Jones Eliminated in Upset

By Elmer Dulmage, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, March 2.—There was dynamite in every swinging racquet left to-day in the Canadian badminton championships. It was strong enough to overturn champions and topple near-champions. If the explosions occur as crowded galleries at the badminton and racquets club expect, few titleholders will be left by nightfall.

Jammed in the midst of the best field-of-eight that ever struck into the second day of men's singles play, black-throated Douglas Grant, Halifax, remained a staunch favorite. His shot-making yesterday appealed to observers as considerably superior to that of any challenger.

But trouble seemed to be in store for other champions. Mrs. Anna Patrick, Vancouver's mid-court smash hound, stood out as a dangerous rival for Ruth Robertson, Ottawa, women's singles champion. Doubles combinations which appeared capable of accomplishing almost anything were scattered all over the premises.

SPRINGS UPSET

Jack Sibbald, Woodstock, Ont., scored the outstanding upset yesterday, eliminating Charlie Jones, Winnipeg, perennial Manitoba champion and runner-up to Grant for the Dominion title last year in a senseless free-game match, 15-12, 8-15, 15-11.

Despite the fact such noted competitors as Mrs. G. G. Pitt, Manitoba champion; Margaret Robertson, Ottawa; and Lenora Mowat, Montreal, remained in the field, the experts regarded women's singles as inevitably climaxed with a battle between the champion of 1933, Ruth Robertson, and the champion of 1931, Mrs. Baskin.

The Robertson sisters of Ottawa, Montreal's Mowat sisters, Mrs. Pitt and Mrs. W. Hughes, Winnipeg, Marjorie Barrow and Marguerite Delage, Quebec, 1931 and 1932 titleholders, these were among the challengers for the women's doubles title, held by Mrs. E. H. Wittington and Nora Conway, Belleville.

Charles Jones and Art Bnell, Winnipeg, emerged from men's doubles play yesterday as threats to the safety of Montreal's defending champions, D. R. W. McKean and A. N. Burrows.

While Tigers were taking their third defeat in as many games, 4 to 1, at the hands of Sea Hawks at Seattle, Eskimos were avenging their 13 to 7 defeat last week at Portland by turning back the Buckaroos 5 to 3.

A pair of veterans of hockey wars for more than a decade furnished the power plant that carried Eskimos to their victory and left them a single point back of Calgary.

TRY ARBOR OF THE GRAYING HAIR and Gordon "Duke" Keats, playing manager, who have forgotten more hockey than the average league player ever knew, were responsible for all five Edmonton tallies. Arber scored twice, the first and last goals, and Keats was credited with a solo score and two assists.

CHANGE STYLE

In the Seattle-Calgary fixture, Tigers kept up the aggressive style of hockey they have adopted in the last few games, and found it less to their advantage than the defensive style which took them to the top of the standings early in the season and has since kept them there.

Hawks broke a scoreless tie in the second and rapped home three more in the final session, while Tigers were to Couper's lone tally on Smoky Harris' rebound.

Tigers' defeat leaves both Edmonton and Vancouver Lions an opportunity to step into the league leadership before the regular season winds up and the playoffs start.

RIDICULOUS STATES BAER

California Heavyweight Now Feels Certain He Can Knock Out Carnera

San Francisco, March 2.—Max Baer, California, now feels certain that he can knock out Primo Carnera inside of fifteen rounds if he gets the chance.

The former Livermore butcher boy so declared after following the Associated Press account of the Carnera-Loughran fight in Miami as it arrived in the newsmen of The San Francisco Chronicle yesterday evening.

"It is that the best Carnera can do," Baer declared as the fight ended, "he ought to go out and get a reputation for himself if he wants to fight me."

Baer, who aspires to the heavyweight championship, the giant Italian successfully defended against Loughran, exclaimed: "The idea! Carnera letting a man who is fully seventy-five pounds lighter go fifteen rounds! Ridiculous!"

The curly-headed Californian declared that when and if he meets Carnera the Italian will have to do more than get me into a corner and lay on me with all his weight, as he was doing with the little light heavyweight, Tommy Loughran. What is more, Carnera better not try stepping on my toes because that might make me mad and I'd do things to him."

Baer asserted he hopes he and Carnera are matched for a bout in New York with Jack Dempsey as promoter. "I'm here to stay," he added, "that I hope Carnera gives me just one taste before he retires. If I can't lay him flat in fifteen rounds, then I'll quit and go to ranching."

EDMONTON IN CLOSE CHASE

Eskimos Lone Point Tigers in Northwest Hockey

Early season cellar occupants, Edmonton Eskimos to-day were right on the heels of the league leading Calgary Tigers in the Northwestern Professional Hockey League standings as a result of two league fixtures yesterday evening.

While Tigers were taking their third defeat in as many games, 4 to 1, at the hands of Sea Hawks at Seattle, Eskimos were avenging their 13 to 7 defeat last week at Portland by turning back the Buckaroos 5 to 3.

A pair of veterans of hockey wars for more than a decade furnished the power plant that carried Eskimos to their victory and left them a single point back of Calgary.

TRY ARBOR OF THE GRAYING HAIR and Gordon "Duke" Keats, playing manager, who have forgotten more hockey than the average league player ever knew, were responsible for all five Edmonton tallies. Arber scored twice, the first and last goals, and Keats was credited with a solo score and two assists.

Montreal Tennis Player Continues Fine Performance in Bermuda Tourney

Hamilton, Bermuda, March 2.—Two upsets marked the quarter-final round of women's singles play in the fifteenth annual Bermuda tennis championships yesterday, leaving Jane Sharp, Pasadena, Calif., and Gladys Hutchings, Bermuda, second and fourth seeded players on the sidelines. The men's division, however, proceeded according to form with Lester Stoen, Wilmer Allison, Bryan Grant and Laird Watt, Montreal, reaching the semi-finals.

Virginia Ellis, an unranked U.S. player, defeated Miss Sharp, 7-5, 6-3. Hutchings, 6-3, 6-4.

Wilmer Allison turned back Herbert L. Bowman, New York, a former Bermuda titleholder, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, in the quarter-finals. Grant lost only one game to F. Hynson, Stoen defeated F. Brown, 6-0, 6-3, and Watt eliminated A. Reid, 6-1, 6-1.

The newbies will be playing in the first of the two-game series for the southern section championship, having gained this right by disposing of Lady Smith in the first round. RUGBY TITLE IS AT STAKE

Canadian Scottish and College Intermediates Meet in Championship Fixture

Canadian Scottish and Victoria College Intermediates League rugby fifteens will hold the spotlight in local oval ball circles to-morrow afternoon when they meet in a sudden-death game for the league championship, at the Athletic Park at 2.30 o'clock. The fixture is the opening attraction of a twin bill. In the second game Garrison B, undefeated champions of their division, will tackle the J.B.A.A. seniors, last year's Barnard Cup winners, in an exhibition affair. At Oak Bay Park, Fifth Brigade B and the Navy-Wanderers will open play in the Cowichan Cup series. This feature is billed to start at 2.45 o'clock.

With the Intermediate League title at stake, the Scottish-College match is expected to draw a good following. The Garrison-Bays encounter will create considerable interest as it marks the debut of the Tommies against senior company.

Navy-Wanderers senior squad which gave the J.B.A.A. a good battle last week before admitting defeat, will be favored to defeat the Fifth Brigade B in the Cowichan Cup fixture at Oak Bay.

swiftness in jamming Carnera's face with a short left, crossing his right foot and hard to the jaw. Carnera missed a wild right, and Tommy returned, and Tommy rapped the champion with lefts again, and hammered him right to the side, and flung another right to the head as Carnera started to flounder.

Matching all his guile against the tremendous strength of the champion, Tommy stabbed in with lefts, and another right to the head, and feinted him out of position, and banged him with both hands as the crowd went wild with applause. Tommy was making the champion miss, and Carnera looked like a novice as Loughran speared him and outlanded him to the end of the round.

ROUND FIVE
Carnera caught Tommy coming in with a left to the side of the face, and roughly Tommy unceremoniously along the ropes, holding him with one hand and then the other, hitting him on the side of the head. He drove Tommy into a corner, and the challenger made the giant miss with both hands. Carnera chased Tommy heavily on the little fellow, and another right to the head, and Carnera suddenly stepped out with a left to the jaw that bent Carnera's knee. Again Tommy sent a right to the chin, and Carnera seemed to stagger a trifle. Furiously Loughran smashed both hands to the body with a beautiful rally, as the bell sounded.

ROUND SIX
Carnera, rushed out anxiously and Tommy appeared him with a left to the face that brought a lump under the champion's left eye. Loughran flew at the champ with both hands smashing rights and lefts to the giant's face, and Carnera was so frantic he grabbed Loughran about the face with one hand, and hampered his head with a right until the referee forced him to stop. Failing at long range, Carnera grabbed Tommy again and forced him to the ropes, where he hammered wildly at Tommy's body, forcing him half way out of the ring. Tommy came away and banged another hard right to the jaw, but Carnera forced him to the ropes and hit him on the head with both hands. Loughran crashed a right to the heart and the crowd boomed as Carnera hit him with a left as the referee broke them. Loughran banged a right to the body but blood trickled down his face from a cut on the left side of his head as the bell sounded.

ROUND SEVEN
Moving swiftly Tommy danced about the great bulk of the champion trying to reach him with a left jab to the face, but Carnera stabbed out three times with his left to the jaw, but Carnera forced him to the ropes and hit him with a right to the body and as the champion moved slowly in his efforts to get away. As they clinched the referee pulled them away and Loughran drove a hard right to the head. They were dancing, both tired at the bell.

ROUND TEN
Loughran bounced up freshly and stabbed Carnera's long jaw with his left. They popped jabs at each other until Carnera again enveloped the challenger in his huge arms on the ropes and held him around generally.

Loughran tried to reach the champion's head with his left but could only retreat to the opposite ropes, when the champion again hung all over him. Once more Referee Shea hauled the champion off the little man angrily and Carnera shouted back at him in Italian.

The pace slowed as they were content to feint for right-hand openings. Tommy shot a long right to the head, Carnera got one over, Loughran whipped a left hook to the body and Carnera missed with both hands.

Rallying beautifully Tommy slugged with the champion and landed half a dozen right-hand smashes to the side as Carnera missed as many punches with both plion rushed in, tied up Carnera neatly. As they came away Loughran shot a terrific right to Carnera's jaw and the champion turned savage. He drove Loughran to the ropes smashing his head with both hands, beating him as he would with two clubs and the challenger backed up desperately, bobbed low and wore as much of the storm as he could. Carnera calmed down and Loughran danced dizzily to the centre of the ring, as he managed to jab a left to Carnera's head and a right to the side as the bell sounded.

ROUND EIGHT
Carnera tore out as if to end the fight swiftly, catching Loughran in mid-ring, driving him across to the ropes under a bat-like attack from both fists. Tommy staggered as he came off the ropes and his legs were dragging wearily. He shot his left to Primo's body and then landed a hard right to the chin as Carnera followed.

Again as Tommy retreated and the champion tore after him Loughran stabbed his left straight to the head and pounded his right to Carnera's jaw. Carnera became careful and they danced, each watching for an opening. Suddenly Carnera charged Loughran to the ropes but Tommy grabbed him, pulled his way out of danger and stabbed the champion's nose weakly as the bell rang.

ROUND NINE
Content to box with his lighter, cleverer, challenger, Carnera stabbed Loughran's head with his left. Then Tommy slipped inside and shot his own left to the champion's jaw.

Carnera rushed Loughran to the ropes again, the one place where he continually held the upper hand, and bludgeoned Tommy about the head with both hands. Loughran came out wearily and Carnera jabbed him heavily about the head with three long left hands.

Again Carnera jabbed Loughran's face with a left, then crossed a right to the jaw as Tommy weakened and moved slowly in his efforts to get away. As they clinched the referee pulled them away and Loughran drove a hard right to the head. They were dancing, both tired at the bell.

Chicago Fans Wild As Rangers Victors

Cover Ice With Debris When New York Team Scores 3 to 1 Hockey Victory; Referees Forced to Leave Ice; Boston and Maroons Winners

Jack Adams and his Detroit Red Wings were probably wondering to-day whether their recent rush to the top in the National Hockey League's United States division was worth while after all.

They likely debate whether it would not have been better to be content with a second or third place and save their strength for the Stanley Cup playoffs than to put on pressure that probably will bring them the division championship and a series with Toronto Leafs for the N. H. L. title.

For the Wings looked far from their top strength yesterday evening when Montreal Maroons downed them 4 to 1. Their passing game, a feature of their recent good play, wasn't clicking and the defence gave Goals Wilf Cude little protection.

The Montrealers, on the other hand, were going at their best and took the win in their stride. It strengthened their hold on second place in the Canadian division to three points over Canadiens, who lost 3 to 1 to Boston. Detroit's lead of seven points over New York Rangers dropped two points when Lester Patrick's team beat Black Hawks 3 to 1 in Chicago.

Bely Northcott, the Calgaryian who made the Canadian Press all-star team last season, but has not been able to reach his old form yet this year, stood out in the Maroon attack with Jimmy Ward. Each got a goal and an assist and broke up Detroit's attacks with clever backchecking.

NORTHOTT SCORES
Northcott shot his team into a lead in the first period on Ward's pass and Ward and Bill Mackenzie made 3 to 0 in the middle frame. Johnny Sorrell got Wings' only goal in the third before Earl Robinson notched the Montrealers' fourth with Northcott in on the play.

Boston's win over Canadiens was a record more highly-placed teams envy. Red Beattie got Bruins' first goal in the opening frame and Babe Siebert and Joe Lamb added counters in the second. Boston really scored all four goals in the game as Canadiens' counter, credited to Jack Riley, came when Neil Stewart cleared the puck into his own net in the third.

REFEREES LEAVE ICE
Rangers and Hawks, likely opponents in Stanley Cup play, staged the most savagely-fought game of the Chicago season before 11,500 persons. Three times during the second period play was halted while newspapers, ticker tape, peanuts and playing cards the crowd had thrown were cleared off the ice. At one stage the officials left the ice to give the crowd an opportunity to cool off.

The win moved Rangers out of a tie with Hawks and gave them sole possession of second place. Paul Thompson started Tommy Gorman's team off in the right direction with his goal in the second minute of the game, but that was all the Chicagoans got.

Cecil Dillon tied it up on a pass from Earl Seibert less than five minutes later and after the teams had battled through a scoreless second period Murray Murdoch broke the tie and Dillon's second goal made it sure.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT
In the absence of President E. L. Tait, who has been out of the city for some time, George I. Warren presented the annual report of the fishing head. The report stated that the membership was approximately the same as the previous year, namely, 239. Thirty-eight trophy buttons were awarded, eight silver and thirty bronze, but not a single gold button was handed out. Seven of the buttons were won by visitors. Up to date, eighty-six buttons have been awarded.

In continuing, Mr. Warren stated that the investigation and tackle committee staged six field days during the season and all proved exceedingly popular. Another trophy has been secured by the club, being donated by Messrs. S. Alcock, fishing tackle manufacturers of Redditch, England, through their Canadian representative, Conway Bencham of Toronto. The shield was designed by one of the local members, and was made in Canada. Rules governing the trophy were presented at the meeting.

CO-OPERATION OF DEPARTMENT
"Another interesting item is the co-operation of the Department of Fisheries with the association for the betterment of Saanich Inlet as a sport fishing area. After considerable investigation by certain members of the association on the possibilities of Goldstream as a spawning ground for cohoes, it was decided to apply to the Biological Department of Fisheries for the seeding of those waters. Through the good offices of your president, E. L. Tait, an allotment of 20,000 eyed eggs were applied for and promised.

Wheat Prices At Winnipeg Advance In Heavy Trading

Winnipeg, March 2.—Strength at Liverpool and friendly advance from abroad injected bullish enthusiasm into the wheat market on the Winnipeg-Exchange today. Final figures were 1½ cents in advance of the previous close.

A marked improvement in Canadian export sales was a further factor in the firmness. Closing quotations were only ½ cent under the day's high points with May wheat quoted at 69½ and July at 70½ cents.

Buying for export account appeared to be the main source of support in the pit, while sentiment had a very friendly aspect due to encouraging overseas reports.

The total movement for shipment abroad was estimated in excess of 500,000 bushels. Under considerable demand for wheat, buyers were forced to bid the price over more than a cent to fill the orders.

Liverpool wheat was strong and local prices held close to top levels.

most of the day.

Chicago prices followed Winnipeg. Liverpool wheat displayed independent strength and closed ¼¢-½¢ higher. Reports from abroad indicated European crop conditions were not so good.

Southern Hemisphere wheat shipments during the past week totaled nearly 4,000,000 bushels compared with 10,000,000 bushels in the same week a year ago.

Considerable cash grain changed hands but spreads showed little change. Coarse grains firmed in sympathy with wheat. Flax added three cents.

Associated Press

A Mystery Novel

By K. S. DAIGER

"Assistance!" snorted Anderson. "Key, you get dumber every minute! Cleveland came to see me for exactly one reason and one only—and that was to sound me and find out how much I knew! Mrs. Phelps went to him with some information and he had to find out quickly whether we were on the right trail or not. That lady—and maybe Cleveland himself—are guilty and I'm going to prove it to you in quick order!"

The car now came to a stop in front of a low rambling villa overrun with ivy—a charming home even in the driving gale.

Anderson flung open the door without waiting for his chauffeur's assistance and dashed up the few steps leading to the tiny entrance porch. He put one hand on the bell and kept it there while with the other he vainly tried to open the door. The Inspector was in a towering rage, stung to the quick that a public official of Cleveland's prominence should have attempted to hoodwink him.

The ring was answered by a young, pretty maid in uniform.

She looked alarmed at the sight of us and her eyes travelled to the car with its driver in police garb in the chauffeur's seat.

Anderson scarcely gave her a glance.

"Inform Mrs. Phelps that Inspector Anderson is here and wishes to see her immediately. Immediately, do you understand? And tell her that I intend to tolerate no delay!"

It was evidently on the tip of the servant's tongue to state that her mistress was out as she had doubtless been instructed to do, but something in Anderson's tone convinced her that she had best deliver the message as promptly and as accurately as possible.

"Yes, sir," she replied in a frightened voice and scurried away.

Anderson strode into a low-ceilinged drawing-room to the left of the hall and we tagged along close at his heels.

The maid apparently forgot nothing in repeating the conversation, for Mrs. Phelps, either through fear or anger, promptly swept down the stairway. Her face, like Anderson's, was flushed with rage.

"Really, sir," she began, without any preliminaries and without deigning to notice either Carroll or myself, "I have always understood that policemen were without the rudiments of politeness, but I did not know that their lack of good manners extended to invading the homes of private individuals and the ordering of other people's servants."

"I don't care what you understand, Mrs. Phelps," answered Anderson rudely. "You take a seat there in that chair. I have a few questions to ask you and I intend to have an answer to them!"

"Really?" replied the lady, with a scarcely veiled sneer. "I imagine that you are going to be quite disappointed. I can't tell you voluntarily and offered my assistance in any way possible. That is quite a different matter from receiving orders!"

"A very different matter, indeed," began Anderson. "But you can take your choice between answering these questions here in the privacy of your home or at the police station in the presence of the reporters. I have a blank warrant here in my pocket and at the first lie you tell me you will find yourself locked up as a material witness in the murder of Mrs. Paige. There are several things that apparently you do not know about the police department. One is that it has a way of its own to make people talk who don't want to.

"Come here, you," he shouted at the maid who was still lingering in the doorway with her mouth open and a terrified expression on her face. "You are not to interrupt my talk."

The woman looked at him in amazement. Obviously she was wondering if Anderson had gone quite cuckoo, and something of the same kind was passing through my own mind. What on earth had the inspector up his sleeve now?

Mrs. Phelps, however, rose promptly, laid her cigarette on a smoky ash stand and swept over to a desk. Here she was clearly on safe ground and was anxious to comply with so innocent an order.

tree until I have finished! Do you understand?"

"Yes, sir," gasped the girl meekly, and withdrew from the room. We heard her French heels tapping down the hall.

"Now," began Mrs. Phelps defiantly, "just exactly what do you want that you dare to invade my home and speak to me and to my maid in this manner?"

"This is what I wish to know," answered Anderson coldly, "and I intend to have an answer. What did you take from Mrs. Paige's desk in the library last night when you and your confederate sent us out to the garden?"

Mrs. Phelps never winced. On the contrary, her relief was apparent and she permitted herself a bland malicious smile. Whatever she had feared it was not this.

"Why, this is such a simple question, my dear inspector! I took nothing at all!"

"That's an outrageous lie and I am going to have the truth," retorted Anderson furiously. "This gentleman here saw you remove something from that desk and here is the very hairpin with which you succeeded in prying it open!"

From an inner pocket he produced the slender gilt hairpin which he had picked up on the floor of the library the night before.

Mrs. Phelps smiled now in frank amusement.

"What a detective you are, Inspector! That may or may not be my hairpin. If you picked it up in Sunny's house, it probably is. I can assure you, however, that you will doubtless find plenty more of them strewn around in every room of the house, for I was a frequent visitor there, and these bobbed heads of ours are the death of us! And she ran her hands through her yellow mop. "But surely you do not consider me under suspicion just because I dropped a hairpin, do you?"

"What did you take from the desk?" persisted Anderson inexorably. "And again, my dear inspector, I will answer you that I took nothing nor did I open the desk!"

CHAPTER XX

Mrs. Phelps nonchalantly lounged over to the library and removed a cigarette from a jeweled box.

"Won't you and these gentlemen have one?" she invited in her best society manner. "Please let me urge you! If you smoke, perhaps you will not be quite so disagreeable."

To my utter amazement, Anderson said "Thank you very much, but I am not a smoker."

In one second, the entire scene had changed from open warfare to a fair imitation of a social call.

For a moment in silence, he seemed to be making great efforts to overcome his anger and to get himself under control again. He was obviously succeeded, for a moment later he said quite gently:

"If you really did not open the desk, Mrs. Phelps, then I certainly owe you an apology both for my tone and for our intrusion here. I wonder if you will be kind enough to let me have a few lines of your handwriting? Anything will do. It is customary in cases of this kind, and I am merely requesting it as a formality."

The woman looked at him in amazement. Obviously she was wondering if Anderson had gone quite cuckoo, and something of the same kind was passing through my own mind. What on earth had the inspector up his sleeve now?

Mrs. Phelps, however, rose promptly, laid her cigarette on a smoky ash stand and swept over to a desk. Here she was clearly on safe ground and was anxious to comply with so innocent an order.

Uncle Wiggly Has Some Fun

By HOWARD E. GARIS

Mrs. Puff, the fat lady pig who was second cousin to Mrs. Twistytail, looked sharply at Uncle Wiggly and Raggie, the tramp rabbit, as they hopped inside the hollow stump bungalow. Mrs. Puff had come to stay in the bungalow while Mrs. Longears and Nurse Jane went shopping.

And as Uncle Wiggly cut short his tramping trip and came home with Raggie ahead of time, Mrs. Puff, being a stranger, didn't know Mr. Longears when he arrived at his bungalow. Neither did she know Raggie. She thought them both tramps and she was going to let neither of them in when along came Mrs. Twistytail.

"Oh, this is Uncle Wiggly, and this is his tramp friend, Raggie," said Mrs. Twistytail. "Well, I'm glad to know that," said Mrs. Puff. "Of course, as this is the first time I've been left in charge of the bungalow, I didn't want to let in strange tramp rabbits," and she looked at Uncle Wiggly and also at Raggie, both of whom had on old clothes.

"Oh, it's quite all right," said Mrs. Twistytail. "I'm sorry you had all this trouble, Uncle Wiggly. After this my second cousin will know you and let you in if she happens to be staying in your bungalow when your wife and Nurse Jane are out."

"I'm sure I hope so," said Uncle Wiggly, hopping over to the fire to get warm. For the cold and the snow had come in through the ragged suit he wore when he and Raggie were on a tramping adventure.

"But what I should like to know," spoke Raggie, also warming himself at the fire, "is why you are Mrs. Puff?"

"I know," said Raggie. "But why Puff?"

"Why not Puff?" asked the lady of that name. "If you make a point of it, why not Puff?"

"Oh, of course, if you like," said Raggie.

"It isn't that I like it. I just can't help it," said Mrs. Puff. "Uncle Wiggly and the tramp rabbit looked at each other wonderingly and Mrs. Twistytail said:

"Perhaps I can help."

"There you are!" said Mrs. Puff, handing out the cakes. "I hope—puff-puff—that you will like the way I—puff-puff—served you."

"Oh, it was fine!" said Uncle Wiggly. "Now we shall have some fun at this little party!" Then he and Raggie ate the food and drank the coffee and then, all of a sudden, Mrs. Longears and Nurse Jane came home. Uncle Wiggly said: "Here's where I have some more fun!"

So he hid himself behind a door and when his wife came in he jumped out at her and yelled "Boo!" And she didn't know him, as he still wore his tramp clothes. But soon she found out who he was and then there was more fun and everybody was happy. Mrs. Puff went home with Mrs. Twistytail and all was peace and quiet in the hollow stump bungalow.

And if the sheet of paper will give the envelope a shower bath in the fountain pen, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly chasing his hat.
